HVAC Service

Whether it is 95 degrees or 45 degrees outside, you need your HVAC system performing at its best for the occupants of your facility. The control systems within the equipment as well as the systems controlling the facility are constantly evolving with new technology. Therefore it is important to have trained technicians who are familiar with these systems and have the expertise to work on them and keep them maintained on a regular basis.

Greene & Associates has experienced professionals who can diagnose why a system is not working and perform the necessary repairs to get the system up and running in short order. Some of the systems we perform service for are:

- Direct expansion (DX) refrigerant air conditioning systems-packaged or split systems
- Chill Water systems-air cooled or water cooled with cooling tower
- Heating water systems-packaged, sectional or marine boilers
- Steam systems-boilers, heat exchangers, steam traps, etc.
- Electric heat-internal unit electric heat, duct mounted electric heat, wall heaters, unit heaters
- Ventilation-exhaust fans, make up air units, supply fans, energy recovery units for outside air treatment
